Have you ever hosted a conference call and been unsure who was listening? For high profile audio conference calls, it is vital that the host knows which participants are connected to the call.

Indigo Forward's gocall secure, unlike standard audio conference services, offers businesses a new and unique way to conduct their audio conferences, allowing them complete visibility of all named participants to the call, by location and giving the host complete control and peace of mind.

Why gocall secure?

A powerful new way to manage your audio conferences without the need for pre registration. gocall secure is audio conferencing at the touch of a button, with an additional layer of security for those highly confidential meetings.

gocall secure

Manage your calls simply without the assistance of an operator.

- An online dashboard lists all participants as they join the call
- See the participant location

Conduct training and CPD sessions.

- Ensure required participants are taking part in the call at a glance.

Compliance

- Verify who has been on the call and when
- Lock the conference once all required participants have joined, to ensure security

Benefits

With the right combination of features and enhancements you can:

- Set up conference groups - saving you time, every time you hold an audio conference
- Provide detailed call reports - showing you all named participants who joined the call from start to finish
- Record and archive your meeting - replay the call to reinforce your message, share with a colleague or publish for others to listen to
- Remove any unwanted participants at the click of a button
- Dial out to required participants from the dashboard
